Told that There was no Cure for Him

"After suffering for over twenty years with indigestion
and having some of the best doctors here tell me there was no
cure for me, I think it is only right to tell you for the sake of other sufferers as well as your own satisfaction that a 25 cent
bottle of Chamberlain's Tablets
not only relieved me but cured me within two months although I am a man of 65 years," writes
Jul. Grobier, Houston, Texas.

"Corn King" Died Poor

George H. Phillips died at his home in Chicago Monday. He was once known as corn king of this country. He could judge of what the years corn crop would be from the time the grain was planted, it appeared, and when he cornered corn, he rose from an obscure dealer in a few days
and also with considerable wealth. He lost it nearly all the way he won it. He retained a fine diamond given him at the time of his big winning by admiring friends, and a home he bought for his wife, but he had little else when he died.

Splendid For Rheumatism

"I think Chamberlain's Liniment is just splendid for rheumatism," writes Mrs. Dumburgh, Eldridge, N. Y. "It has been used by myself and other members of my family time and time
again during the past six years
and has always given the best of satisfaction." The quick relief from pain which Chamberlain's Liniment affords is alone
worth many times the cost.
Obtainable Everywhere.

Talks with Screen-Struck Girls No. 9

By BEATRIZ MICHELENA

"A mother is one's best friend."

And of discouragement any girl may expect to find an abundance in her first attempts to become a motion picture actress. How hard she will often find it to get an audience with the manager or director—long, dispiriting waits in cold, irresponsible outer waiting rooms, until she feels the whole world in league against her! How dejectedly she will drag herself home at the end of many an unproductive day! There will be whole weeks of these days, perhaps, strung into one continuous blue line.

In times, such as these, the home ties will count for much. They may, indeed, decide whether the final issue be success or failure. Even with the home cheer to bolster her up, the average girl will find it hard enough to keep a brave front during the early conflict.

Before starting on the struggle, she should confide with her home folks—most of all, I should say, with her mother. The entire situation should be talked over and her chances carefully weighed. The family, as one unit, should be interested in the undertaking and thoroughly conversant with it. Until she has had opportunity to test it out, a girl can never know what comfort and help there is in such organized support behind her.

Issac H. Kinley

Issac Horace Kinley was born in Wayne county, Indiana, April 6, 1841 and had lived one day longer, would have been 75 years old. When a child he left his native state with his parents for Salem, Iowa. On the way there his mother sickened and died and was buried at Mattoon, Illinois. The remainder of the family went to Salem, where they made their home until Isaac Kinley was 21 years old. Here he studied law, and was admitted to the bar at the age of 21 but had practiced law only a short time when the civil war began. At the opening of the great conflict he joined the Second Iowa Cavalry, serving till the last year of war, when he was mustered out on account of a wound.

At the close of the war Mr. Kinley entered a law school at Albany, New York, and completed a post-graduate course, after which he returned to Salem, Iowa where he was married to his boyhood sweetheart, Miss Sarah F. Davis. She with one son, William H. Kinley, an attorney, and two daughters, Mrs. J. Handley and Miss Louise Kinley, survive him.

On their honeymoon trip, and in quest of a location, Mr. Kinley and his bride came down the Mississippi river by a steamboat to St. Louis, thence up the Missouri to Brunswick, which then was the distributing point for thousands of tons of freight unloaded here by the big steamers, scores of which plied the Missouri at that time.

After a short visit here, they decided at once to cast their lot in Brunswick. Accordingly they rented property, after which Mr. Kinley had only $5 left. With this $5 he engaged a small space in the law office of Judge Andy Harris, and here began to practice profession. He developed rapidly into one of the best known lawyers in this part of the state, and during the twenty two years he lived here he was prominent before the bar of this and adjoining counties.

In 1876 Mr. Kinley formed a law partnership with Capt. J. C. Wallace, now of Keytesville, and this partnership continued till 1888 when Mr. Kinley moved to Kansas City. The firm was prominent and successful, and handled many important cases in this and surrounding counties. Mr. Kinley served one term as prosecuting attorney in this county, and for a short time

One bit of advice that I would impress upon the girl who starts out to make her way in the motion picture world, is to keep up her home ties. How much revived hope and buoyancy she will find, during dark hours, in encouraging words from home, only we who have already experienced their helpfulness can know.

There is something more than sentimentality in the saying, "There is genuine practical truth in it that becomes most poignant in times of trouble or discouragement."

And of discouragement any girl may expect to find an abundance in her first attempts to become a motion picture actress. How hard she will often find it to get an audience with the manager or director—long, dispiriting waits in cold, irresponsible outer waiting rooms, until she feels the whole world in league against her! ## NURSE RELIEVES MUCH SUFFERING

The Patient She Helped Makes Interesting Statement.

Madison, Wis.—Mrs. Oscar Day, of 1606 Monona Ave., Fair Oaks, this town, says: "Before my baby was born, I suffered terribly with womanly troubles and nervousness, and was living in a state of fear all the time. One day, an old friend of mine, who, by the way, is a nurse, and goes around to all cases, brought me a bottle of Cardui, the woman's tonic, and told me to keep on taking it right along. I did, and felt much better after the first bottle. I kept on taking it, and had as little trouble as anybody could wish for. Feeling very good now."

There never was a better medicine for women than Cardui, and I will recommend it to any one who is in need of it. This nurse uses Cardui with her patients, so it is well known all around here. I am never without a bottle of Cardui in my home. We urge you to try Cardui, the woman's tonic, for your troubles. It will help you over the hard places, just as it has thousands of other women. Don't delay. Begin taking Cardui today. You won't regret it. NCB served as circuit judge, filling the vacancy caused by the death of the judge then in office. He was prominent as a Democrat, and for a time served as state committeeman from this district.

From 1880 till 1888, the firm of Kinley & Wallace owned and published the Brunswicker, Mr. Kinley retiring from the business in 1888, and Capt. Wallace continuing as owner of the paper. During the time he was connected with this paper, Mr. Kinley served with distinction as president of Missouri Press Association.

The life of Mr. Kinley was one of continuous activity, and in all his dealing he maintained a high position in the estimation of all who knew him.—Brunswick.

Feathered Pests

It is not too early for Gardeners and others to begin complaining against neighbors chickens, for the chickens have begun their forays on front yards and all other places into which they can walk, fly or creep under. There are dozens of chickens already turned loose by their owners to make their living off their neighbors in some way, the law against their being permitted to run at large, common neighborliness and christian conscience to the contrary notwithstanding.

There is more genuine religion sacrificed by the imposed upon by the neighbors in the matter of allowing their poultry to gobble up gardens, chase the home chickens from the feed troughs, scratch flower beds into smithereens and camp in the shade on porches, than in any other one of neighborly imposition. And the worst of it is that the owner of chickens who allows them to grow and fatten off their neighbors, display such admirable tempers if the chickens are shooed off the premises, much less the object of a brush, brickbat or poodle. Notice the indignation of the raised-for-nothing chickens when you gently try to knock a few of their heads off as they are despoiling your garden, flower beds or front porches, and you will see as in a glass, the true disposition of your cherished neighbor. The owner of a hen with 30 chicks will feel that you have outraged all principles of neighborliness if you do more than drive the destructive bunch homeward. The hen will display little more combativeness than her owner nor display more of a feeling of outrageous denial of her privileges.

Why it is that some people can calmly sit at their windows and witness hens with as many chickens as lice doing their neighbors premises to destruction, can be explained perhaps on the general processes employed by many in getting something for nothing. The inaudible abuse, mild suggestion that their chickens may come to grief in some way, loss of garden and flowers and feed, all and each unnoticed and of course unheeded, but disturb the hen and her brood in any manner and let it be observed that at once you have created an enemy. Love me, let my chickens live on your place and die at home; exercise your rights against them in any manner and Christian (?) consideration is let out for your inspection.

WHAT CATARRH IS

It has been said that every third person has catarrh in some form.

Science has shown that nasal catarrh often indicates a general weakness of the body; and local treatments in the form of snuffs and vapors do little, if any good.

To correct catarrh you should treat its cause by enriching your blood with the oil-food in Scott's Emulsion which is a medicinal food and a building-tonic, free from alcohol or any harmful drugs. Try it. Scott & Borne, Bloomfield, N. Y.

HUSBAND OBJECTS TO OPERATION

Wife Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Des Moines, Iowa.—"Four years ago I was very sick and my life was nearly spent. The doctors stated that I would never get well without an operation and that without it I would not live one year. My husband objected to any operation and got me some of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I took it and commenced to get better and am now well, am stout and able to do my own housework. I can recommend the Vegetable Compound to any woman who is sick and run down as a wonderful strength and health restorer. My husband says I would have been in my grave ere this if it had not been for your Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. BLANCHE JEFFERSON, 703 Lyon St., Des Moines, Iowa.

Before submitting to a surgical operation it is wise to try to build up the female system and cure its derangements with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound; it has saved many women from surgical operations.

Write to the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass., for advice—it will be confidential.

Additional Equipment Necessary

Ten new stenotypes have been added to the Stenotype Department at the Chillicothe Business College this week, made necessary because of the heavy attendance the college is enjoying and because of the growing popularity of machine shorthand. Only last January 28 new type-writers were installed, so the college now has over 160 typewriters. A Burroughs Bank Bookkeeping machine has been ordered for the Banking Department. Since this system is being installed in so many of the banks, the college authorities decided that its graduates should thoroughly familiarized with the system of machine book keeping as well as with the operation of the machine.

When it comes to true progressiveness, it is doubtful if another college in the state is the equal of the Chillicothe Business College that for years has been known to study and measure up to modern needs and conditions.

The Gardner Land Bank scheme grows in popularity as it is better understood. Still, of course, there are interested parties other than opposing candidates who are attempting to discredit the measure by proclaiming that it is a species of single tax. Any thing to make the land owner pay high rate of interest is the idea of money sharks and anything to beat Gardner the plan of some of his opponents.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.
When she had Children she gave them Castoria.
